2. Comprehension:

Sample:

1. Read the following passage and answer the questions given below:

It is the height of selfishness of men, who fully appreciate in their own case the advantage of a good education to deny these advantages to women. There is no valid argument by which the exclusion of women from the privileges of education can be defended. It is argued that women have their domestic duties to perform and that if they were educated, they would bury themselves in their books, and have little time for attending to the management of their household. On the contrary, education involves knowledge of the means by which health may be improved, and which enable a mother to consult such modern books that will tell her how to rear up her children into healthy men and women and skilfully help them when a disease attacks her household.

Questions:

- i. Are men justified in denying education to women?
- ii. What argument do men put forward to justify their stand?
- iii. What is the attitude of the author regarding the education of women?
- iv. Suggest a suitable title to the above passage?
- v. What is your opinion on the above passage?

2. Read the following passage and answer the question given below:

The West throughout the last five centuries has displayed extraordinary energy which has taken many forms, some good, some bad. It has explored the world from Pole to Pole. It has learnt the secrets of atoms and stars.

It has discovered how to produce such an abundance of necessities and comforts as previous ages would have thought unimaginable. But all this, which might have ministered to human happiness, has been vitiated by one fatal fault; the love of power over other human beings.

Questions:

- i. What has been explored by the West?
- ii. What was unimaginable in the previous ages?
- iii. Give meaning of any one of the underlined words.
- iv. Suggest a suitable title for the above passage.

3. Read the following passage and answer the question given below:

Making pottery on the potter's wheel is called throwing. The thrower is a very skilful workman. But there is another method of shaping articles out of clay - Moulding. A plaster mould is made and that clay is pressed into it. This is a quicker and less difficult way and must be used to make things like handles: but all the most beautiful pottery is thrown. When the piece of pottery is taken off the wheel, it is put aside to dry, after which design may be painted on it with special colours that will stand great heat: it is then ready to be fired. This is done in a large oven, or kiln. The pieces of pottery are placed in earthenware tube called 'saggers' so that flames cannot touch the pottery.

Questions:

- i. What is throwing?
- ii. What is the other method of shaping articles?
- iii. What is the advantage of Moulding?
- iv. How does the potter make designs on the pieces of pottery?
- v. How is pottery baked in fire?
